

Diversity in mainstream media is a must in order to foster public debate, an essential ingredient of democracy. Do not allow large media corporations to consolidate and become even larger. In the public interest, keep limits on media ownership.